HCI Congratulates Researcher for “Sword of Hope” Award

May 19, 2009, Salt Lake City— The American Cancer Society (ACS) presented a “Sword of Hope” award to David Jones, Ph.D., Huntsman Cancer Institute investigator and professor in the Department of Oncological Sciences at the University of Utah. The ceremony took place at the ACS “Legacy and Leadership” banquet May 14.

The ACS gives the “Sword of Hope” to individuals or groups for outstanding service to the community in the fight against cancer and for support of the ACS mission of conquering cancer through research, education, advocacy, and patient service.

Jones was recognized for his work in understanding colon cancer form its earliest stages and for his impact as a professor of oncological sciences.
